well known. The door was closed and the consultation carried on in secret. Nothing would ever have been heard of the story had it not fortunately happened that the reporter passed by as the door opened and heard the words, "He'll tell you if you can't get a divorce," fall from the official's lips as the lady bowed her adien.

A little persuasion induced the aforesaid official to talk, and the story is about as follows:

The lady, whose first name is Francesca, and her sister Martha, were twins, and had resided formerly in Heidelberg, Germany, with parents who were tolerably well off.

FRANCESCA WAS HER FATHER'S PET,

Thus when it comes to pass that when a Dissenter dies in a country village he must be buried either without any religious rites at all or else with the religious rites of the Established Church, performed by the parish clergyman or his curate. This has long been felt as an intolerable grievance by the Dissenters, and for several years they have attempted to induce Parliament to pass a bill compelling the parish clergymen to permit dissenting ministers of all sects to bury their dead in the parish churchyards with their own rites. SHADINES.

PIVE years since, after previous years of experience in the propagation and preservation of SHADINES, or young SHBDS, we first introduced our fish to the American people. SHADINES are put up in hermetically sealed tin boxes, perfectly boncless, in a mild, pleasing, appetizing sauce, palatable te all, free from oil (so objectionable in sardines,) retaining only the natural richness of the Shad, and ready for the table at all times—for dinner, lunch or evening meal—by merely opening the box. Many parties having been deceived into buying American Club Fish alias Ocean Trout by there having been represented to them as being the same SHADINES.

Club Fish alias Ocean Trout by there having been represented to them as hadog the same as Shadines, therefore, bear in mind, we are the original and only packers of SHAD-INES, and every genuine box has the latters H. & C., pressed on each hox.

Milwauker, May 14th.—The four distilleries which had been released by the court on special bonds resumed operations. Yesterday a despatch was received from Washington ordering the officers to stop them, until they had given new bonds in the place of those given on the 1st of May. Distillers here have telegraphed to those of Chicago, St. Louis and elsewhere, offering to unite with them in testing the constitutionality of the revenue law. A favorable reply has been received from Chicago, and the distillers have resolved to propeed. They have retained ex-senator Carpenter to take the question into the courts.

This year, on April 22, the bill was voted on again in the Commons. The Tories now have a strong majority, but on the vote, in a house of 482 members, the bill was thrown out by a majority of only fourteen. The governor and council met on Thursday, and carefully considered the disputed claims; but in adjourned to meet next Monday, when the questions must be decided. On that decision hinges, as the dispatch of yesterday truly says, the political supremacy of either party in the state. Let us glance at the facts. The senate consists of twelve members. Five of each party were elected, and in the other two districts, there were no apparent choices. The republican candidate in one of them was Nathaniel Head, but he was voted for as "Natt Head," although a law of the treasury.

Burns, representing the iron interests of Pattsburg, Pa., a representative of this paper called on the colonel at his office yesterday to get something fresh on the great subject of the iron resources of Tennessee. The following interview took place:

and now it takes the front rank for car-wheels. The Messrs Stacker, of Stewart county, more than thirty years ago, drove the Scottish sugar kettle out of the market. A test made at the Franklin Institute at Philadelphia as early as 1832 showed the Tennessee iron to equal the iron of Sweden in ductility and strength. You know, perhaps, that in our east-ern iron belt we have ore largely inter-

They will hast seven times as long, and cost only one-third more, and our railroad magnates will be forced to use them on the score of economy and safety. Now look at it; we have all kinds of iron ore, plenty of coal and timber, at nominal prices, accessability to market, limestone for tlux, sandstones for hearths, juxtaposition.

I know of deposits of iron ore equal in quantity to the Iron mountain of Missouri. You do not mean to say that we have of furnaces.

You do not mean to say that we have masses of iron ore equal to that found at the from mountain in Missour:?

I do. And not only Tennessee has them, but Georgia and Alabama also. Why, not ten days ago, a short distance from Amberson's station, in Alabama, on the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad, I rode over hills covering from two I rode over hills, covering from two to wenty acres each, which resemble ex-ploded planets, shivered and torn into millions of fragments. These hills, I am satisfied, are mountains of iron limonite—and to show the depth, a well dug in a valley below, sixty feet deep, passed all the way through the shivered mass. And at Prior's station, on the same railroad is an outcrop of iron ore, a cor-rect description of which would not be crowded. About a mile from the rail-road an isolated mass and almost solid, neight from lifty to one hu fifty feet. The largest of these hills covers forty acres and boulders of ore as large as a block of buildings stick out all over it.

May not this be surface ore?

No; for the same boulder-shaped mass es rise up in the ravine below Besides exervations have been made which show the ore to extend to an unknown depth. Mining also has been extensively carried on nearer the railroad and the ore grows better as the diggings grows deeper. Is the ore mixed with foreign ingredi-

What would be the cost of mining and putting upon the cars at this point?

Practical men inform me that with suitable machinery it can be done for fifty cents per ton, and that with a sufficient demand it may be delivered in Chattanooga for two dollars per ton.

Do you remember what the furnaces located in Pittsburg pay per ore?

In a table prepared by Jas. M. Swank, secretary of the American Iron and Steel association, he puts the cost of ore delivered at Pittsburg for the year 1850 as $7.75 per ton; in 1855, $7.51; in 1860, $7.45; in 1864, $9.12; in 1866, $12.19; in 1869, $1.1869, $

Did you visite any other places in Georgia?
One other—seven miles south of Kingston. Here at one point in a ravine which cuts a gash some seventy or eighty feet deep through a solid bed of ore. The one extends out on either side to the distance of three hundred yards, and had the appearance of being a solid bed. It was at this point my Pittsburg companion declared after having visited Lake Champlain, Lake Superior and the Iron Mountain of Missouri, that there was more ore here than at any of them. was more ore here than at any of them. The truth is when one looks at this imough in our own state?

Plenty of it. But you see coal builds Pienty of it. But you see coal builds up the wealth of a state, and all these ores after the exhaustion of the timber, must be smelted by Tennessee coal, and to save transportation the ores are always carried to the coal, and practically these ores, though in Georgia and Alabama, belong to Tennessee. Being on the railroad, they are already accessible.

Do you think we have any deposits that equal those you have described?

Yes; in Hickman county, on the old Etna property, is the finest presentation of iron ore in the south, so far as I know. Running for the distance of four miles is a bluff of ore sixty feet high. This ledge is occasionally gashed by transverse revines so as to show its solidity. In Stewart and Lawrence counties are also large

This range of mountains consists of several long, high, parallel ridges intersected by deep cuts or chasms through which the Wantauga, Nolickucky, French Brood, Big Pigeon, Little Tennessee, Hiwassee and Oconee rivers flow in raging torrent out of North Carolina and Georgia into this state. Now, between this double range is a series of low hills running the whole diagonal length of the state, and every one of these hills is filled with limonity one of these hills in the fires of furnaces and forges, and Knoxville and Chattanouga and probably Nashville, will become the great iron emporiums of the Mississippi valley.

What was the opinion of your Pittsburg companion as to the prospect of Tennessee becoming an iron centre? He said the iron men of Pittsburg were satisfied that Pennsylvania cannot in Unaka furnace It requires no flax and makes what is called Spiegel-eisen, or looking-glass iron, which is the principal ingredient for making bessemer steel. I have very rarely heard this objection from the lips of intelligent men. When I have, a little conversation has sufficed to develop the fact that they had not sought to inform themselves on this particular subject. I state the objection because it affords me the opportunity to give briefly what has been accomplished. In doing this, I shall repeat much of what has been contained in official papers published by me from time to time. I shall venture on this repetition for the reason that the facts contained in these official papers have failed to reach the people. School officers have received the publications containing them, and they have the close of officers in some portions of the State testify that the number of published and the schools last year, in their several counties, was at least double that of any year since the close of the war. contribute my part. The first public school law enacted under the present constitution, was passed Oct. 13th, 1870. Under this law schools were put in operation in many counties of the State, in the month of August, 1871. The report of my predecessor, which was doubtless very rolled in the schools, 42,914 white pupils, a d 6,664 colored, making a total of 49,578. The small number entering the echools was doubtless partly due to the tried, but much more largely to the entire lack of confidence, on the part of the better portion of our people, in the State administration of that period. Many good citizens accepted the subor-dinate school offices, and, no doubt, made honest exertions to accomplish the best work possible under the cir-cumstances. A few of a different character, as I have reason to believe, were put into these positions, and discharged the duties as such men might have been expected to discharge them. As might have been expected, when the time of payment arrived, the wherewithal to make the payment was wanting. The operations of that year exhibit a strange combination of recklessnes, or lack of foresight, on the part of the head of the department, with an unusual want of care in dooking into the crounds of promises on the part of grounds of promises, on the part of those who rendered services. Very of the iron resources of tendesce. In following interview took place:

I see, Col. Killebrew, that you have recently paid a visit to the iron regions of the state in company with an 1ron man from Pittsburg. Will you please give me your opinion as to Tennessee's future in Iron?

Most cheerfully. I am more than ever convinced that the manufacture of pig iron must in the future gather around Tennessee as a center. The excellence, variety and abundance of ore, the cheapness of fuel, and the present and probe pective facilities for transportation, added to the extraordinary cheapness of property, and salubrity and excellence of our climate, assure a splendid future for Tennessee. We have in the state brown and red he matite, magnetite, specular and fossil ores which are found in various forms, compact, pipe, pot, straited plate, shot and laminated, all easily mined, and by admixture making every variety of iron that the demand of the trade may call for. Beasdes, we have timber and coal in abundance contiguous to the iron fields. Timber privileges can be bought for five cents a cord, and, as a cord of wood makes about twenty-five makes a cord of the tree is not made on the American continent any superfor. Long ago it was deared and the first of the continent any superfor. Long ago it was deared and the first of the content of the state of the property is a contract of the first of the decision of the first of the my first report related mainly to the changes which I considered necessary. To the legislature which coavened in summer of that year, the friends of public schools are under lasting obligations. They passed a law making pro vision for the partial payment of debt of 1871. debt of 1871, repealed the general school-law then of force, and passed a new one, retaining all that was valuable in the old, and embodying such im-provements as had been suggested by reflection and experience. The year 1873 opened with much brighter prospects. The school funds which had been accumulating from the regular sources had been faithfully kept. The law providing for the payment of the debt of 1871 had yielded $174,000, which was apportioned among the counties, and faithfully disbursed. Upon an accurate calculation it was found that school funds that had passed into the treasury from the 6th of August, 1870, up to the 19th of August, 1872, by the sum of $7,610,25. Thus it will be seen that, under the present administration, the people were taxed to replace a large portion of the school fund seized and squandered under the preceding. The regular school fund had accumulated to the amount of $250,000, which was also properly apportioned. The schools of 1873, which were put in operation under instructions issued early in that year, accomplished a good work

UNVEILING CORRUPTION. The Doings of Some Eminent South Carolina Reformers Receiving Attention in a United States Court.

The first case which be heard gave him some ensight into the financial carousal which some parties have been enjoying in South Carolina. It was the case of the Greenville and Columbia Raitroad company against Hiram H. Kimpton, known as the chivalric alterage of his excellency Gov. D. H. Cham-go of his excellency Gov. D. H. Cham-

This case was brought to recover certain items, viz; First, $506,000, or his due proportion thereof, disposed of by authority of the board of directors without consideration; second, $600,000 placed in his hands as financial agent of the company; and, third; the balance of his account, about $750,000.

The claim, though large upon its face, has narrowed itself down in the present investigation to the first item, and in that to its subdivision, of the due proportion which he (Kimpton) received of the $396,000. This proportion is 7-24ths or 9 24ths, as the case may be.

The claim is of this nature It is alleged The claim is of this nature It is alleged that certain parties banded together in in 1871, under the agis of the republican party, to get the control of the Greenville & Columbia railroad. The road was then under the management of Henry P. Ham-mett as president, and ex-Governor James L. Orr and J. P. Ried were directors. It is said that for a pecuniary consideration of $20,000 each they bought up the shares of the stockholders at a small price, and transferred them to what is known as the Greenvile & Columbia railroad, copart-Greenvile & Columbia railroad copartnership. This consisted of twelve shares.

The privilege conferred by the charter was to construct a telegraph wire along the line of the Greenville and Columbia railroad, which ight the company already had. He had no criteisms upon the management of the state road. He was proud of its officers. He had always supported them and expected to continue to do so. His only object was to see equal justice open to the officers and directors of the uccorgisraliroad. And he believed the affairs of the Georgia railroad had been as economical and as well managed during the past twelvemonths as the affairs of the state road. Examine the facts and then decide whether the convention, the newly elected board of directors held a session.

was a trunk line with three feeders at each end, and had only 138 miles of track and one organization to be maintained. The Georgia railroad was n trunk line. It was one hundred and severty-one miles in length with several branches, and was subjected to the severest and sharpest competition at every point. It could not be considered in any sense a trunk line. Yet the official reports showed that the gross carnings of the State road during the past twelve months had been $1,344,000; during the same period the gross earnings of the Georgia railroad The Sunny South of this morning will be the best number ever issued. State vs. George Saterfield. Forgery. George is the colored gentleman who endeavored to take in John T. Hagan on a forged order last month. The order was as follows: "ATLANTA, GEORGIA. Mr. John T. Hagan: Trease pay this boy $1 50 for me, and oblige, April 20th. George Crease."

Now as Kries don't happen to spell his name that way, Mr. Hagan smelled a rat loud, and the ingenuous darkey was arrested. He plead not guilty, and went to trial with Col. Ivey for the defence. The jury disagreed with George, and he will do some hard work in the penitentiary for the next four years. Immediately upon the adjournment of the convention, the newly elected board of

One of the Most Successful Enterprises of the Age.

One of the best evidences of the Increasing wealth of a community is its ability to be self-sustaining—containing within interial the requisites for self-protection. One by one, Atlanta is building up such interests within her midet as attest not only her enterprise but her worth, such enterprise as give her a financial standing and influer ce in the country. The Atlanta fire insurance company is one of the best institutions now before the public. There are several reasons why this is so.

In the first place, good finerance if one of necessities of the age. The dangers from fire are so numerous and the interests at stake are so large, that the means of insurance has demanded the attention of many of the best financial minds of the country. To meet this the Atlanta fire insurance company was organised.

In the second place, ability in management.

organised.

In the second place, ability in management is required. Mr. J. W. Kears, the agent of this company is a gentleman of popular manners, with whan it is a pleasure to deal the combines a knowledge of men with a knowledge of business, and will neither represent a company that deals and will neither re-to both. In a word his management is a success.

Thirdly, solvency in the company is demanded. A glance at the list of stockholders, published in another column, places the solvency of the Atlanta fire insurance company beyond doubt. There we see the names of men that are in Georgia, synonymous with financial success and per sonal integrity; and these men will see that the last dollar of liability is paid.

Fourthly, the stockholders are men known to our people, their going out and coming in. Or; explet trust them, knowing that trust to be well placed.
